fairandfunky CIC, based in Yorkshire, delivers a unique range of interactive and creative workshops for schools on key global themes: Fairtrade, recycling and the environment. fairandfunky workshops focus on Citizenship and can be adapted to offer a bespoke session for schools.

"fairandfunky workshops are heaps of well organised, well resourced fun. They provide practical, hands-on activities. They offer a clear message of sustainability and Fairtrade."

fairandfunky workshops teach knowledge and understanding within social, moral, spiritual and cultural frameworks, empowering students to take their own little steps to change the world. The workshops enhance curriculum subjects and add value to enrichment during a specialised week, for example: Waste Awareness Week, Fairtrade Fortnight, World Environment Day and Arts Week. fairandfunky workshops are differentiated to suit KS1 and KS2.

All fairandfunky workshops are delivered by two members of staff. Helen Robinson is an experienced primary teacher, having worked across Kirklees and with VSO in Kenya. Sophie Bebb is a qualified artist with experience in leading community workshops, as well as working with the Oxfam Youth Board.

CHOCOLATE AND FAIRTRADE

Chocolate and Fairtrade introduces students to Fairtrade, focusing on the 'bean to bar' journey of chocolate from Ghana to the UK. This workshop challenges perception of values using role-play, video, debates and presentations. Students enhance their numeracy, speaking and listening skills, and develop an understanding of a sense of place in the world.

CHANGE THE WORLD WITH AN EGG BOX

"Practical and varied in activity, informative and encouraged creativity. The workshop made the 3R's real for the pupils"
Ms Dalton, Year 5 Teacher at St Thomas' Primary School.

Change the World with an Egg Box combines enterprise skills with team building and design and technology to develop geographical knowledge on local and global environments. Students learn about climate change and global warming, and are challenged to design and make a world-changing machine from recycled materials. This workshop culminates in presentations to peers in a 'Dragons Den' style format.

fairandfunky recycling workshops cover a number of themes, and develop knowledge and understanding of local and global sustainability issues. In each workshop students design, make and create individual artworks from recycled materials.

RECYCLING WORKSHOPS

Challenge fairandfunky!

From recycled forests and yoghurt pot bikes, to giant Fairtrade farmers and recycled banners, fairandfunky welcomes the challenge to design, make and create unique artworks with schools. How will your school change the world with fairandfunky?

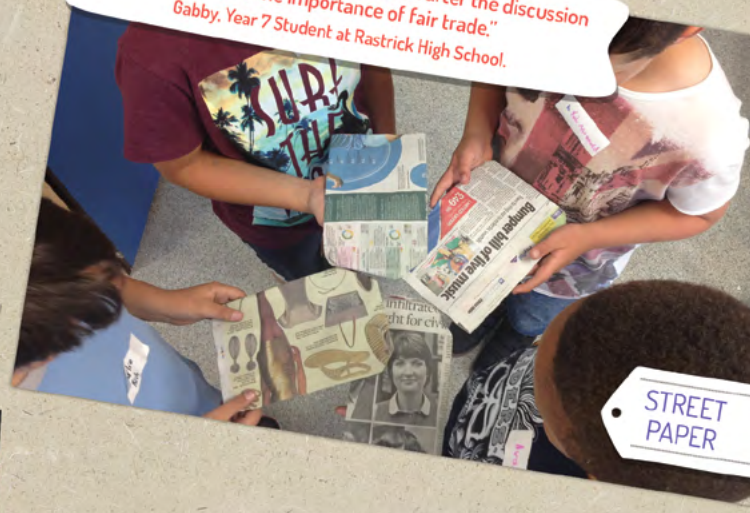
GO BANANAS!

Go Bananas develops full knowledge and understanding of Fairtrade, focusing on the journey of bananas from farm to fruit bowl. Students learn about life as a banana farmer in Colombia through role-play, activities, debates and video presentations. This workshop enhances literacy and numeracy skills, and empowers students in thinking about their sense of place in the world.

"I really enjoyed the paper bag game... after the discussion I learnt the importance of fair trade."
Gabby, Year 7 Student at Rastrick High School.



STREET PAPER

Street Paper is a study on life for street children in India, using creative role-play, debates and video presentations. Students engage in the 'Paper Bag Game' to model life as a street child, and employ numeracy skills to calculate their daily and weekly earnings. This workshop develops a sense of social justice and moral responsibility in participants, through interactive discussion.
